

But a Good Frame

of Mind to Be in

Your editor takes a dim view of professionalizing in elections such as Crittenden county held Tuesday over the West Memphis horse race matter.

The fellow working the moral issue is opposed to horse racing, and will fight it where he finds it; but he isn't settling it to state or nation in such a manner as to maintain regulations and controls which will command majority support as reasonable and just.

It was personally satisfactory to me when the people of Crittenden county voted against the West Memphis track proposal, but that is incidental. So is the whoop-and-whoop of the moralists raised during the campaign. So is the election itself.

The travesty of law enforcement under local option for liquor should be in capital letters why there can never be any local option regarding race tracks.

The real issue wasn't in Crittenden county; the real issue never got out of the State Racing Commission's chambers in Little Rock.

Arkansas has one horse track, at Hot Springs, and public opinion long ago crystallized on the idea that one track is enough. Regardless of what the law actually says, everyone knows that the intent and purpose of the establishment of the State Racing Commission was to maintain a reasonable facsimile of honesty at the Hot Springs track.

There never was any intention either to authorize additional tracks or to legalize a network of horse-racing throughout the state.

But it is the perversion of human nature to try to deal in absolutes, defying all compromise. Thus we have to contend with some people who would set up a racing plant anywhere they chose, and others who would outlaw racing as such—and in the long run the people ignore both.

You have an identical problem with liquor. The state has a reasonably good control over racing with its present public monopoly. The largest and most progressive states in America apply the same principle to the liquor traffic, controlling it through a state-owned dispensary.

Under such a state monopoly a local attempt to set up a liquor store would have no more real substance and meaning than Tuesday's race track election in Crittenden county. The liquor store issue, like the race track issue, would go back to the state commission where it belongs.

State monopolies on questionable traffic make for the best possible law enforcement, as witness the unimpeachable fine police work on drunkenness and the resultant street and highway safety records of the major states.

And state monopolies bring in more tax money than any other system.

To that the moralist has no answer.

And yet, so long as we deal in government and the cost of government it is a question that requires an answer.

And yet, so long as we deal in government and the cost of government it is a question that requires an answer.

And yet, so long as we deal in government and the cost of government it is a question that requires an answer.

Southerners Set to Battle 'Rights' Issue

Washington, Jan. 24 (AP)—Southern senators today reported closing ranks today for a final fight against any move to reduce their power to block civil rights legislation with long speeches.

The Senate Rules Committee has scheduled for next Tuesday an initial showdown on the battle-laden issue which in the past has precipitated fights that tied the Senate into knots.

The committee has before it a variety of proposals to amend the existing debate-limit rule. This now requires a vote of at least 60 senators—two-thirds of the elected membership—to limit a time limit on debate. Such a limitation is the death knell of any filibuster.

The proposals range from one to permit a debate limit by vote of a majority of the senators present to one which would call for a vote of two-thirds of those present and voting.

Senate leaders clearly fear that any one of them, if brought to the floor, would set off a paralyzing filibuster fight. They have been shooting for adjournment of congress before the Republican and Democratic conventions in July.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), who usually quarrels with filibusters for his Southern colleagues, has declared repeatedly he would fight any move to change the rule. He and others from the South reportedly are already talking strategy.

Rules Committee members meanwhile started jockeying for position when the group starts voting on which—if any—of four pending measures to recommend to the Senate.

Sen. Benton (D-Conn.), who presided at public hearings on the issue last fall, announced he would insist on committee votes first on "the most liberal" of the plans. This in itself was certain to produce controversy.

Benton told a reporter he would argue that the committee should vote first on a proposal by Sen. Morse (R-Ore.) to permit imposing closure on vote of a majority of those present and voting.

If that loses, he said, the group then should take up a plan sponsored by Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-N.Y.) to allow closure (A) by vote of two-thirds of those present after one day's notice, or (B) by a majority of those present after 14 days' notice.

In event that plan is rejected, he would proceed then to a proposal by Sen. Ives (R-N.Y.) to switch to closure by vote of 40 or more senators—a majority of the elected membership—and then to a proposal by the late Sen. Wherry (R-Neb.) to allow vote limitation by vote of two-thirds of those present.

Lehman publicly advocates an attempt to wear out a filibuster, no matter how long it takes.

Contractor Cries 'Unfair', Road Job Held Up

Little Rock, Jan. 24 (AP)—The Arkansas Highway Department temporarily has been restricted from issuing a work order on a half-million dollar road building project in Grant and Saline counties.

The order was issued yesterday by Pulaski Chancellor Guy Williams on petition of the Pioneer Construction Co., Malvern, Ark.

The Pioneer Company said it had been discriminated against when it had not been permitted to submit a bid on the project.

The Arkansas Highway Commission awarded the contract to the W. D. Jeffrey Construction Co., Inc., of Ft. Smith, Ark., for $512,492. The work involves 15.5 miles of grading, drainage structures, and three concrete bridges on Highway 107 near Sheridan.

The Pioneer Company, headed by A. C. Kennedy, charged that Chief Highway Department Engineer Al Johnson had refused to permit the firm to study plans and specifications on the proposed job.

Pioneer also charges that: 1. Had Pioneer been permitted to study the plans, a bid under $512,000 would have been submitted.

2. Johnson told Pioneer that it did not have sufficient financial rating to make the necessary bond to insure completion of the contract.

In granting the temporary injunction, Judge Williams said "if the allegations are true, there is a serious question as to the legality of this letting of the contract."

Hearing on Pioneer's request to make the restraining order permanent will be held at a later date.

Johnson said he thinks the Pioneer construction firm was referring to the Highway Commission's order on determining qualifications of prospective bidders.

He said that before plans and specifications on a project are released the commission asks firms wishing to submit bids to list the amount of work they can do, their assets and liabilities equipment and names of supervisory personnel.

Johnson said the Malvern firm submitted one of the forms but it was "not situated to handle a project which would cost more than a half-million dollars."

He added that the qualification questionnaire had been in effect a number of years.

Would Let People Decide on Racing

Little Rock, Jan. 24 (AP)—Gov. McMath wants the people to decide the race track issue in Arkansas.

The Anti-Gambling League has said that, with the defeat of Dixie Downs, Inc., at West Memphis, it would continue to fight to outlaw all gambling and horse racing in Arkansas.

The governor commented yesterday that the future of racing in Arkansas is "up to the people." He personally fought against Dixie Downs.

The only track in Arkansas is Oklahoma at Hot Springs, McMath's home town.

'Weird' Cast Announced for the Wedding

As an aid in helping Hempstead County's Polo Drive go over the top in its present drive for funds, the Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars have scheduled a hilarious revue for Friday night, Jan. 25th in the City Auditorium.

With the cast recruited entirely from the business men of Hope the plan is to stage a Womanless Wedding in a bigger and better style. Musical numbers and various acts presented in an impromptu manner are scheduled with the usually staid and proper citizens presenting a silly satire for the fun and frolic. No outside directors actors or script will be used and every penny taken in from the sale of tickets for the affair will go to the aid of the unfortunate victims of the nation's most dreaded disease for children, infantile Paralysis. The participants' time is being given freely and all materials are donated in an effort to raise the maximum amount of money for this worthwhile cause.

The cast includes such well-known actors as: W. L. Bates as the bride, Skeeter Fenwick as the groom, Herbert Burns as best man, Mike Kelly as maid of honor, Senator Crow as the preacher, Hobbs Luck as mother of the bride, Guy Downing as father of the bride, Eddie Whitman as mother of the groom, J. L. Liebling as father of the groom, and Forest Hain as train bearer.

The bridesmaids will include Cecil Bittle, Stony Stonequist, Basil Jones, Galen Hobbs, Dean Stranded, Roy Formbie, Ben Owen, Dr. Strong.

Ring bearers will be Dr. Brents and Leo Compton. Candle lighters will be Royce Weisenberger and Moody Willis. Assigned the job of ushering the crowds to their seats will be Harry Hawthorne, Fred Robertson, Milton Dillard, Andy Riner, John Keck, Marshall Blackard, Helen White and Bob Turner. Solists will be Ray Luck, Fred Gresham will be Master (Mistress) of Ceremonies.

It is reported that other skits and acts are being prepared and it is entirely possible that several other "characters" will be in the program before final preparations are completed. The public is cautioned not to attend this event unless the want the biggest laugh of the year.

Rehearsal is set for tonight at 7 p.m. so that members of the cast who wish may attend the American Legion Mulligan afterward.

Farmers Urged to Return Cards for Cotton Survey

Several weeks ago the Hempstead County PMA Committee initiated a survey with the cotton farmers in an effort to determine the 1951 planted acreage of cotton in Hempstead County.

Cards were mailed to all cotton farmers in the county requesting that they be filled in and returned to the county PMA office. Records in the county office show that many producers have not returned the cards.

In as much as the information on the cards will be used in setting up any future cotton acreage allotments the committee urges all farmers who grew cotton in 1951 to fill out the cards furnished them and return to the PMA office, Box 70, Hope, Ark.

In the event any producer grew cotton in 1951 and did not receive a card or have misplaced the one originally sent him he may secure another card by contacting the county office in the court house in Hope.

Rebel Revolt in Nepal Is Smashed

New Delhi, India, Jan. 24 (AP)—The Nepalese embassy announced today that a 24-hour revolt in tiny "buffer" state of Dal had been smashed and all but 100 of the rebels captured.

Ambassador Maj. Gen. Bijaya Namakshere said Dr. K. L. Singh, leader of the revolt, and the leader of his Raksha Dal volunteers — Nepal's home guard — had fled to the southern part of Nepal, which is sandwiched between India and Communist Tibet.

The ambassador said he had talked with his government this afternoon and was told that there is complete calm in Khatmandu, the capital.

All Khatmandu buildings seized by the rebels are back in government hands, he said. These included the government secretariat, the radio station, which again was broadcasting, the arsenal, the telephone exchange and the capital airport.

The ambassador said the situation in Khatmandu was completely under control.

He said the revolt started at midday Tuesday, when a group of Raksha Dal volunteers freed Singh from Singha Durbar, formerly the prime minister's official residence, where he was imprisoned.

Singh and his rescuers then joined about 1,200 other home guard insurgents and took over strategic positions in the capital by mid-day Wednesday, the government with the help of state forces, had recaptured all rebel held buildings. The remnants of the rebels force fled south with Singh, who led a similar brief revolt against the ruling Rana family last July.

The Raksha Dal volunteers were used by the Congress Party—now the ruling party—in an insurrection against the Rana family in 1950. The congress uprising led to government concessions by the Ranas—who had ruled Nepal for 104 years—and their eventual ouster.

Indian national plane service between Patna, capital of Bihar province, which borders Nepal and Khatmandu was suspended yesterday. The rebels also cut telephone communication with New Delhi until today.

The Hindustan Times said the revolt was the result of differences among Nepal congress leaders. B. P. Koirala, home minister and brother of Prime Minister M. P. Koirala, was reported to have left the government.

Upheavals are common in the remote mountain kingdom, but the threat of the Communists in Tibet makes a new outbreak of international interest.

When the Spaniards reached the Yucatan peninsula in 1517, they found that the Aztecs had been driven there by the Indians.

UN Ready to Offer Final Peace Proposal

Panmunjom, Korea, Jan. 24 (UPI)—The United Nations command may make a major attempt soon to break the deadlock in Korean truce negotiations by offering further—and possibly final—concessions to the Communists. It was indicated tonight.

One concession may be an Allied offer to accept a simple oral pledge by the Reds that they will not try to build up their military strength during an armistice.

If this offer was made, and the Communists accepted it, the big deadlock of the truce negotiations — the Red refusal to guarantee not to build new air bases in North Korea — would be broken.

The following developments seemed to point toward a major break in the present stalemate: 1—There was a persistent report in Tokyo, unconfirmed but from usually reliable sources, that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander, had received instructions from Washington to "ease up" in U. N. demands.

2—The replacement of tough Maj. Gen. Claude B. Erenbaugh as one of the Allied negotiating team by Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, announced Wednesday.

3—The steady withdrawal by the U. N. command forces its original firm insistence that the Communists give an iron-clad guarantee not to build any air bases in North Korea during an armistice.

On Thursday's talk here, the Allies asked the Communists: "Will you now say in simple terms what you are really doing during an armistice on this matter?"

It was reported that, in the end, the Allies might even insist on mention of air bases but would settle for a mere promise not to increase military strength.

The Communists made no concession. They promised to mark their 11 war prison camps in North Korea in September. They against Allied aerial attack.

Red staff officers also gave United Nations officers a map pinpointing all but one of the camps where 11,550 Allied prisoners, including 3,198 Americans, are confined. They promised to locate the 11th camp later.

In the stalemate truce negotiations, the U. N. gave the Communists another chance to settle the key armistice issue of airfield construction with a simple promise not to build up their airpower.

The offer was an olive with a rapier. Washington directed to "ease up" on armistice demands in the interest of speeding up a truce.

But the Reds refused to accept the bid. Neither was there any progress in the subcommittee trying to work out an exchange of war prisoners.

Thus the 27-day deadlock in the truce negotiations remained unbroken as the talks ended their third month since their resumption Oct. 25.

The Communists for a third time rejected a U. N. proposal for an immediate change of sick and wounded prisoners. Rear Admiral R. E. Lihby promptly accused the Reds of trying to use the sick and wounded as hostages to force an armistice on Communist terms.

Both subcommittees agreed to meet again at 11 a.m. Friday (0 p.m. EST today).

The U. N. has been demanding that the Communists mark their prison camps and pinpoint their locations on a map after the Reds charged an Allied plane dropped three bombs Jan. 14 on the hospital at the Kangdang camp, 20 miles east northeast of Pyongyang. The Communists claimed 20 prisoners were killed and 45 wounded in the attack. All casualties were believed South Koreans.

The Reds turned over to the Allies a map giving the location of all but Camp No. 1 at Chang 80 miles northeast of Sinju on the Manchurian border.

The Communist officers said a river there had changed course. They promised to give the exact location of the camp as soon as the new course of the river had been plotted.

Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 24 (AP)—The sheriff's office and the Las Vegas Air Force Base organized search parties early today to hunt for an airplane reported down somewhere in the 80-mile stretch between here and Needles, Calif.

Report of a crash of an airplane, type unknown, but possibly an Air Force plane, was received from Searchlight, some 40 miles south of here.

State Now Assured of Big Plant

Little Rock, Jan. 24 (AP)—Settlement of a dispute over supply of power has assured Arkansas a 34-million dollar aluminum plant.

Gov. McMath said yesterday that Reynolds Metals Co., has decided to go ahead with plans for constructing the plant in this state even though the project would be cheaper in Texas.

Terms of a contract for the Arkansas Power and Light Co., and the Southwestern Power Administration—an agency of the Interior Department—to supply electrical energy to Reynolds were agreed upon at Washington yesterday.

Secretary of Interior Chapman is expected to sign the contract next week.

C. Hamilton Moses, president of A. P. & L., who returned to Little Rock last night, said his company would be able to supply all power that is requested to furnish.

This was in answer to a telegram he received Tuesday from Gov. McMath who asked Moses to make every effort to sign the contract with Reynolds.

There had been some controversy over the contract and Reynolds officials said that unless they could get the power they would have to seek another site for the proposed plant, probably Texas.

Through the Years DeMille's Film Spectacles Have Played to Over 3 Billion Persons

New York, Jan. 24 (AP)—Cecil B. DeMille, the Hollywood producer and director of extravagant spectacles, opened an interview today by discussing some new lighting techniques developed for his latest film, "The Greatest Show On Earth."

"Very interesting, I said. When I asked, does the picture open?" DeMille's secretary, a woman who has been with him 30 years, said she had just entered the room. His press agent couldn't have looked more pained if he had been stabbed.

Only DeMille weathered the faint past with poise.

For the tiniest fraction of a second, his eyes reflected pain and bewilderment. But they quickly returned to the sensitive artist's retreat and the realist citizen of the world took over. He quietly explained the picture already had opened and had received, as a matter of fact, good notices.

"Serving that near miss, the interview proceeded serenely.

DeMille is a short, bald man of 70, with gentle eyes, a soft voice and a cautious manner. Being the ministry but mother, per se, he said he would like to take more time to contemplate the mysteries of the world.

"Take astronomy," he said. "I have progressed so much in the last 15 years, there's enough there to make a man think for the next 100. Also, I always wonder how the Book of Genesis had the knowledge it did. Science proves it every day. And the atom. It creates much. But what creates it? That brings you down to the question of the mind and the soul, which are coming closer together all the time."

Navy Rakes Civilians Over Coals

Milwaukee, Jan. 24 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball struck sharply at inefficient government employees and harping civilians last night and also said the Navy would carry the war to the enemy if there is no truce in Korea.

He delivered his strongly worded speech to a meeting of the local Navy League Council and the Milwaukee Executive Club after laying aside his prepared text.

Referring to men in government, Kimball declared: "If they don't deliver the goods, let them get to hell out of office."

As for critical civilians, he said: "If you're not willing to come down and show us how to do it better, don't sit at home and criticize."

"The Navy secretary did not mention any names."

"If God forbid—we do not have a truce in Korea the Navy will carry the war to the enemy," Kimball warned.

"We're not going to fight the next war in the United States. We're going to fight it somewhere else, and it'll be up to the Navy to take the Army, the Air Force and the Marines to their new positions, and it'll be the Navy which supplies them with what they need to do their jobs."

"The Navy, said Kimball, will continue to stand as the nation's strongest right hand and carry the fight to the enemy wherever there is deep water."

No reason was given for Kimball's departure from his prepared text which was distributed in advance of his appearance.

New Jersey Protests Plane Crashes

Elizabeth, N. J., Jan. 24 (AP)—Local residents, furious over the two recent airplane disasters here, planned an "indignation meeting" for tonight to protest "their living in fear of fiery death from the skies."

The meeting was called by City Council President John C. Boyle one day after an American Airlines plane plunged into a residential area here, killing 23 occupants and six others in their homes.

Only 37 days prior to Tuesday's air tragedy, this city of 112,000 was the scene of the crash of a Florida-bound, non-scheduled C-40 plane in which all 56 persons aboard perished.

At tonight's scheduled meeting, the townspeople will "have an opportunity to express openly their views about Newark airport," Boyle said.

The plane involved in Tuesday's crash was headed for Newark airport from Buffalo, N. Y. The non-scheduled plane which crashed in flames Dec. 16 had taken off from

DOROTHY DIX Army Wife

Dear Dorothy Dix: Last week my husband got his call for the army. Of course I think he should do his duty for his country, but since we do not live in the same town as any of our relatives, and my mother's home has recently been broken up with the death of my father, I have no other relatives to go to. I would like to know what to do—should I sell my furniture and move back home to a room somewhere, or try to keep up our home?

Answer: If it is at all possible to do so, keep your home. You will certainly be much happier while your husband is away if you are at least surrounded by the things you both took such joy in acquiring. Spending the waiting interim in a strange rooming house would be the most depressing thing you could do. Furthermore, the possibilities are that your husband will be able to spend his furloughs, at least, at home. To be able to come to his own home, with his own furnishings, will aid his morale immeasurably.

Establishing a home is the first achievement of marriage; it is, in fact, the complete basis and purpose of marriage. Acquiring a separate domicile is not possible or practical with all young couples, but it is the perfect beginning to a happy future. Since you and your husband have been able to achieve this essential nucleus, do your best to maintain it. Through the loneliness of separation, the uncertainties of your troubled times, your home will be a haven for both of you.

Responsibilities will help. The responsibility of keeping a home will be good for you, too. It will also serve as a laboratory to test your expanding talents in homemaking, so that when your husband is home for short visits—and ultimately for good—you'll have a whole string of accomplishments to show off.

Things how proud he'll be to bring his buddies home for a well-cooked meal, how pleased to exhibit your handmade slipcovers. Established roots, a firm foundation, these are the things your home will give you and your soldier-husband. Don't surrender them unless it's absolutely necessary.

Dear Miss Dix: I hope you can help me, for I don't know which way to turn. I've been married for a year to a divorced man with two children. I have three children. My husband's ex-wife supports her youngsters now and then, and I'm working to help with my children. My husband doesn't earn enough to keep two families. Some weeks I get no money at all from him. I know it's his duty to support his children, but what am I gaining? I'm so worried about bills that I'm a nervous wreck. At the time we were married he had a good job but hasn't now.

Answer: You are in a dilemma that seems well nigh hopeless. Starting married life with five children between you to support was in itself a tremendous undertaking. The loss of the good job that made this task possible now puts you in a desperate plight. Your husband

Cream Ridge, N. J., Jan. 24 (AP)—A 32-year old Fort Dix civilian employee shot to death his estranged auburn-haired wife, his mother-in-law and his wife's aunt last night and then committed suicide.

State police said the man, Garner Powers, killed the three women in the Powers' home in this small Monmouth county community. His four-year old son looked on in horror.

Dead after the shooting were the attractive wife, Florida, 27, her mother, Mrs. Helen de Mayo, 50, and her aunt, Mrs. Louise Bowler, 61.

Then, police said, Powers grabbed up the boy, Gary, ran to the nearby home of Mrs. Bowler's daughter and shouted:

"Take care of Gary. I just shot the whole damned bunch of them."

He left the boy, dashed out of the house to return to his own home and fired a bullet from the .38 caliber pistol in to his head, police said.

A preliminary investigation showed that the Powers had separated about a week ago because of marital difficulties, police said, adding that Mrs. Powers' mother and aunt had gone to the Powers' home in an attempt to make peace between the couple.

Meanwhile, probes were demanded on local, state and federal levels into the recent crash and into the operation, location and proposed expansion of Newark airport.

Committees of experts were set up yesterday by Joseph O. Frost, regional director of the civil aeronautics board, to investigate the disaster.

Frost said he had now known that the crash had any trouble or defect and that he presumed it had been inspected according to regulations.

All but seven of the victims have been identified. The 29th body was removed from the scorched wreckage late yesterday.

Final Match Today in Tennis Meet

Adelaide, Australia, Jan. 24 (AP) — Dick Savitt and young Hamilton Richardson of the United States battled Australia's top doubles team of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor to a standstill today in their semi-final match in the Australian National Tennis Championships.

Each had won two sets when further play was postponed until tomorrow because of a strong wind and overcast sky.

Owners of New Pro Club to Name Coach

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Dallas, Jan. 24 (AP) — Who will coach the Dallas Rangers newest club in the National Football League, probably won't be known for a month but whoever he is he'll have complete charge and do all the trading and buying of players, directors of the club said today.

This despite the fact that he may have as many as 25 bosses-shareholders in the club.

Giles Miller, Dallas textile executive, disclosed that although a business manager of the club would be named as soon as possible, it might be March 1 before the coach is selected.

The organization, which now has 16 shareholders, already is considering a number of men for the job.

At a meeting last night, the names of Bob Neyland of Tennessee; Paul Bryant of Kentucky; Dick Todd; Sam Baugh; Blair Cherry, former coach at Texas; Bernie Bierman, former coach of Minnesota; and Jimmy Phelan, last season coach of the New York Yanks—the franchise which Miller and associates brought—were mentioned.

Todd coached the Washington Redskins last season. Baugh is a player with Washington.

"The coach will run the team and will make all deals and trades," Miller said. But he added that every effort would be made to get southwestern players on the club.

"By adding a few players, keeping the basis of what we have, and being careful about the selection of the coach, we think we'll have a stem-winder of a team," Miller declared.

The directors said they figured it would cost in excess of a half-million dollars to operate the club here in 1952 and that an average attendance of 25,000 would be necessary to meet the expense.

Another matter of policy adopted was that there would be no line drawn as to race, creed or color, meaning that Negro players may be used on the team. There now are three Negroes on the Yanks roster.

The league bought the Yanks franchise for $300,000, including $200,000 to pay off the lease on Yankee Stadium in New York.

Miller said he would go to New York Monday to confer with Frank Fitzgerald, general manager of the Yanks who is being considered for business manager of the Rangers. He will go to Philadelphia Tuesday to wind up the deal with Bert Bell, league president.

In Connecticut Good Friday is usually proclaimed by the governor as a day of fasting and prayer.

Harvard to Ignore Gate Receipts

Cambridge, Mass. Jan. 24 (AP) — Future Harvard football schedules will disregard gate receipts and athletic deficits will be met by the faculty's budget, President James B. Conant said in his annual report to the university's Board of Overseers.

We have arranged for the coming football seasons without regard to gate receipts and provided for lighter schedules," the famed educator said last night.

He reported the Crimson's 1950-51 intercollegiate and intramural athletic programs resulted in a net expense in excess of $350,000.

This sum is not to be regarded as an athletic deficit," Dr. Conant said. "It is as much a proper charge against the resources of a faculty as the maintenance of a library or a laboratory."

Ozarks Wants to Stay in AIC

Little Rock, Jan. 21 (AP) — The College of the Ozarks, a Presbyterian school at Clarksville, wants to keep right on competing with state-supported institutions in Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference athletics.

Here for an alumni gathering yesterday, Ozarks Athletic Director Frank Koon commented on a suggestion by President Dolph Campbell of Southern State that the six state-supported colleges withdraw from the AIC and form a league of subsidized athletic teams.

Said Koon: "We're in the AIC and we'd like to stay in it. We felt slighted when we read Mr. Campbell's proposal and we didn't understand it. We wondered what brought it up. All I can figure is that some question was placed on the permanency of our subsidized football program. For our part, that question doesn't exist."

Underworld Controls Dope Peddling

By MON WHITEHEAD

Washington, Jan. 24 (AP) — The masters of America's narcotics slaves are the underworld figures who control the supply of stupefying "dope" which brings them fantastic profits from the 50,000 addicts in this country.

They are responsible for a traffic that is destroying the bodies and minds of men, women and children who become prisoners of the habit. They are now the men hunted day and night by U. S. Narcotics Bureau agents.

"Jim Yellow" was one of the hunted. Agents tracked him down in his plush Washington apartment two years ago. "Jim Yellow" Roberts, a 200-pound, light-skinned, in luxury with his brown-haired young white wife, "Finley."

Federal agents had been on Roberts' trail for years. They suspected he was a high shot in the New York Washington narcotics traffic, and that he was one of the big hidden sources supplying dope to street peddlers who passed it on to addicts.

They caught him in 1945 with 44 ounces of heroin in his possession and sent him to prison. The Treasury Department announced after his arrest at that time the "East's" largest dope ring has been cracked.

But Jim Yellow spent only 2 1/2 years behind bars. Then he came back to Washington and soon the agents were on his trail again.

The files of the U. S. narcotics bureau give this story:

One October day two strangers came to town driving a flashy Cadillac convertible with Michigan plates. One of the men was a Negro Jim Watson, who had known Roberts years before in Detroit. His white companion was Narcotics Agent Howard W. Chappell, masquerading under the name "Lonnie."

They made discreet inquiries and then drove to Roberts' apartment house. This was the beginning of a tense 72 hours—with success or failure depending on whether they could gain the confidence of Jim Yellow.

At the apartment house, Watson left Chappell in the car. He walked into the building and knocked on Roberts' apartment door. Roberts peered out, recognized an old friend—and the informer stepped into Roberts' apartment with its thick carpets, expensive furniture and a $3,000 television set.

"Are you alone?" Roberts asked. "The informer replied: 'No. I'm running with a white boy, but he's all right.'"

This was a crucial moment. The while carefully laid plan would collapse if Roberts' became suspicious. But then Jim Yellow said: "That doesn't make any difference. I have a white wife. Bring him in."

Watson called Chappell into the apartment to meet Roberts. "Make yourself at home," Jim Yellow told his visitors. Then he asked Watson what kind of car he was driving. "A 1948 Cadillac convertible," the informer replied casually.

Jim Yellow was impressed. "Men, you're doing all right, too," he said.

Then Roberts, the host, became expansive and boastful to prove to his guests that he was a big man around town.

"Don't you worry about anything while you are in town," he said. If there was any trouble with police, he said, just call him and he would see that the cops were fired.

Finally the talk got around to marijuana and Watson asked Roberts if he had any "pot."

Jim Yellow went into a bedroom and came out with three or four ounces of marijuana in a hatbox lid. "Help yourself," he said. Watson rolled some marijuana cigarettes and Chappell smoked a tea smoking one.

"This is good stuff," Watson said.

Visiting Around Arkansas BY JOE MARSH

"Arkansas Aluminum Industry Is Expanding at Rapid Pace!"

You know, we've overlooked a good bet for a long time. We used to ship our bauxite away for refining into aluminum. And every school boy knows that about 90% of the bauxite mined in America comes from Arkansas.

Now we're doing the processing right on the home field. What's more, several companies are operating huge potlines and smelting the bauxite into aluminum.

Arkansans, generally, are looking to the future. They showed that when they voted to retain legal sale of malt beverages. The Brewing Industry, likewise, is looking to the future and its educational program of Self-Regulation in which the retailers cooperate, assuring maintenance of wholesome, law-abiding conditions for sale of its products.

Taft Meeting Opposition in the West

(Editor's Note: this is one of a series of articles by Jack Bell, Associated Press political reporter, who has been surveying the political situation in the West.)

By JACK BELL

Denver, Jan. 24 (AP)—Taft regulars and Eisenhower volunteers are fighting the opening round of what promises to become a bitter battle for the Republican presidential nominating votes of the Rocky Mountain states.

In what elsewhere has been regarded as an area likely to be favorable to Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, rosters are steaming up a vigorous bid for convention support for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the mountain states.

Six states, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, will cast a total of 80 votes in the Chicago convention next July. While this is fewer than New York's 96, the strategic importance of having Western backing has not been lost upon any candidate.

In Colorado, typical of the mountain area, the Taft-Eisenhower battle is likely to find veteran Sen. Eugene Millikin, chairman of the conference of all GOP senators, in the forefront for Taft and youthful Gov. Dan Thornton carrying the banner for Eisenhower.

The Colorado situation is somewhat duplicated elsewhere in the area. Taft's supporters have a firm hand on the party machinery and the backing of most of the "professional" politicians. Eisenhower's backers claim to have overwhelming support within the rank and file of the party, but have to depend on relative "amateurs" to whip this up into convention votes.

With this battle among the Republicans getting well under way, Democrats in most of the area are sitting tight to see what President Truman plans to do.

If Mr. Truman runs, they will fall in line.

Although the Democrats admit Mr. Truman is at a low point—with the government corruption issue cutting deeply against the party—they apparently are not much interested in Sen. Cavanaugh (D-Tenn), Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Chief Justice Vinson and others who have entered the race and been mentioned for it.

In Colorado, Eisenhower Republicans will have until the May state convention to wage their campaign to overturn what looks like an al-

The Business Women's Council of the First Christian Church met with Mrs. Brice Stewart Monday evening, at her home on West Walnut St. There were 8 members present. Vases and Bowls of Japonica were used at vantage points throughout the house.

The meeting opened with the singing of the Theme song, "An Evening Prayer," followed with prayer by Mrs. Clive Stivers.

After the business discussion, Mrs. Alfred Cunningham gave the devotional and the program. Several study leaflets were given by the members. Topic of the program was, "Building the Church."

Miss Mildred Bemis led in the closing prayer. During the social hour Mrs. Stewart assisted by Miss Fay Loomis served a tempting dessert course.

most solid lineup of GOP bigwigs for Taft. Although he has a legislature on his hands and isn't active yet in the political ring, Thornton told me:

"It is my opinion that the Eisenhower forces in Colorado are going all out for the general."

Strangely enough, many on both sides appear to believe that outward harmony might be reached by a first ballot "favorite son" endorsement of Millikin, although delegates might be split between Taft, Eisenhower and former Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota.

Lieut. Gov. Gordon Allott, managing Stassen's campaign in the state, told me that if Stassen makes a creditable showing in primaries elsewhere, he will get part of the delegation. Stassen had a half dozen convention votes out of Colorado in 1948.

Nearby Wyoming is credited with being a Taft stronghold and the Ohio senator will tend to his fences there with a Feb. 15 "Lincoln Day" speech in Cheyenne, followed by a similar address here the following day.

Wyoming's National Committee, E. D. Crippa wouldn't express a preference.

"Gen. Eisenhower would be a powerful candidate and the Republican Party is very fortunate in having great statesmen like Eisenhower, Taft, Stassen and Warren as presidential candidates," he said.

Court Gets Fayetteville Mayor Issue

Fayetteville, Jan. 24 (AP)—Circuit Judge Maupin Cummings is to decide Feb. 1 which of two candidates was elected mayor of Fayetteville in the Nov. 6 municipal general election.

Judge Cummings set that date for a verdict yesterday after testimony was completed in the election contest between Mayor Powell Rhea and former Washington county Sheriff Arthur B. Davidson.

The litigation stemmed from Davidson's apparent victory over Rhea, who was seeking reelection. Rhea, the Democratic nominee for the post, was the only candidate listed on the ballot. Davidson's name was written in by supporters in a last minute rush to the polls.

The question was raised yesterday whether Rhea was the legal Democratic nominee.

Gene Coffelt of Rogers, Davidson's attorney, attempted to introduce testimony from two members of the county Democratic committee that a quorum was not present when the committee certified Powell as the unopposed candidate for renomination.

Coffelt also sought to have committee Chairman Virgil Ramsey and Secretary George Caudle, both of Fayetteville, testify that no Democratic primary was held for the office.

The committee certified all municipal officeholders as having been re-nominated because no incumbents were opposed for the Democratic nomination.

Judge Cummings did not allow the committee officials to testify, saying that it was immaterial to the case. But in an angry voice he told Coffelt:

"I don't understand why the head and secretary of our Democratic Committee would make a sworn statement under oath that Rhea was the nominee and then want to testify that it wasn't true."

Arabian Farmer Starts College Work

Jonesboro, Jan. 24 (AP)—The young Arabian farmer has started his education at Arkansas State College—using funds supplied him by the Jonesboro Rotary Club.

Shukri Mohammed Elkhatib, 26, who sold his farm in Israel for $400 to get a "free" education in Arkansas, registered at Arkansas State yesterday.

He bought passage to the United States with the farm sale funds after receiving a letter from the Arkansas school, describing campus life as "gull, free and friendly."

He arrived in Arkansas with $10. He has received $300 from the Rotary Club here, and money and letters from Illinois, Alabama and Arkansas.

At Arkansas State, department officials said last night there is a possibility that he could qualify for a scholarship, sponsored by private organizations, to complete his studies in this country.

The officials said the student would have to apply to the American Embassy at Tel Aviv, either in person or by mail to qualify for one of the 2,000 scholarships which the U. S. government finances through the educational exchange program.

Beef and Pork Prices Take Slight Trim

By The Associated Press

Retail prices of beef and pork items were trimmed a few cents a pound in many stores this week. But the reductions were not uniform and in most cases they applied to the relatively higher-cost cuts, like sirloin and porterhouse steaks, beef rib roasts and pork loin roasts.

Other meats and poultry appeared to be holding about unchanged generally. Butter and eggs were mostly steady at retail, but dealers said storms were hampering collections in the Midwest and might well result in a price uptrend by early next week.

In fresh produce, lettuce, carrots and new cabbage were getting a little cheaper as shipments from growing areas increased. Slightly lower also were escarole and endive, fresh peas, peppers and tomatoes. Grapefruit and tangerines were abundant and lower. Snap beans and cucumbers edged up slightly.

Prices of white potatoes were rolled back five to 10 per cent on Saturday at the farm level, and then the rollback was modified slightly by price stabilizers in response to producers' protests. Retail prices, however, have not yet been affected and there may be further modifications in potato ceilings before the retail rollback, scheduled for Jan. 28, is put into effect.

Week-end food specials advertised by major store chains and independents showed little uniformity. They included steaks, beef roasts, pork loins, turkeys, loin lamb chops and lamb shoulder, roasting and frying chicken, sliced bacon, fresh and frozen fish, apples, tangerines, oranges, escarole and spinach.

The Agriculture Department stressed duck and prunes as most plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week.

At Atlantic City this week, the new president of the National Canners Association, Fred C. Holm of Pittsburgh, said the price of canned foods has increased not more than five per cent in the past three years. He attributed this to efficient management and improved techniques in the face of rising costs.

tail prices, however, have not yet been affected and there may be further modifications in potato ceilings before the retail rollback, scheduled for Jan. 28, is put into effect.

Bauxite Order Is Lifted

Little Rock, Jan. 24 (AP)—Pulaski Chancellor Guy Williams has lifted a temporary injunction prohibiting the Arkansas Resources and Development Commission from awarding a contract for mining bauxite ore at the State Confederate Home.

However, Judge Williams' order yesterday does not prohibit George E. Wimberly of Little Rock from taking legal action to prevent actual mining of the ore.

"The temporary injunction was issued at Wimberly's request the day the commission accepted bids from mining companies seeking to buy the ore. The Dulin Bauxite Co., of Sweet Home (Pulaski County) offered the most money for the ore, $1.36 royalty per ton. The commission estimates there are 280,000 long tons on the property.

The commission was to meet today to accept Dulin's bid.

'Irma' Has to Be Very Conservative

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Jan. 24 (AP)—Dagmar doesn't have to worry. Marie Wilkins isn't going to battle her for starring necktie honors on television.

Quite the reverse, Marie made her TV debut with her "My Friend Irma" show a couple of weeks ago and so far her gowns haven't been as much over the top as Irma's.

"It's not my fault," said the blonde girl somewhat testily. "She said she was acting under the direction of Howard, who operates the 'Irma' show on radio and TV."

He issued orders that I wasn't supposed to wear any low-cut gowns or sequins," Marie reported. "He says they wouldn't be in character. Also, he's afraid such things would take attention away from the laughs."

Remember one day when I came to the radio show wearing a

Carryover Cotton Hits a New Low

Washington, Jan. 24 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan told Rep. Gathings (D-Ark.) today that while cotton export restrictions may be avoided in the coming year, "our supply position is by no means a comfortable one."

Brannan discussed the cotton supply situation in a letter to Gathings, who had written the secretary expressing pleasure at Brannan's opposition to a proposal for cotton export quotas.

In his letter Brannan said the great big picture had, I like picture hats, you know; little hats look small, only one me. But when I saw it, I had to scratch him off the ceiling. He said people would watch the hat and forget to laugh."

So Marie, somewhat unwillingly, has selected her TV clothes with an eye toward ending the cures. For Marie, this is a major engineering achievement.

The blonde (who is wiser than most people suspect) is in a bind these days. She has been continuing her air show, inaugurating the TV version and campaigning for the Marco or Dimes. She has offered her services as secretary to the businessman donating the largest amount to the polio fund drive.

She added that she had to rehearse for the TV show every day of the week. And when she isn't rehearsing, she's trying to memorize some of the 50 pages of dialogue she has to learn.

Marie said that her TV work has been helped by the experience she had at the Little Circle Theater here. She played in Sheridan's "School for Scandal" and some short plays.

"It was worth what it cost me," she remarked. (She was paid a bare minimum and had to buy her own costumes, etc.) "It turned out to be a good investment for TV."

cotton supply as of last July 1 was seventeen and seven-tenths millions bales, including a two and three tenths million bale carryover, a 1951 crop of fifteen and two tenths million bales and imports of 200,000 bales.

Domestic and export requirements, he said, will total about 15 1/2 million bales, which will leave the carryover next Aug. 1 of two tenths million bales, or slightly less than last Aug. 1.

"This would be the lowest carryover of cotton since 1925," Brannan said, adding:

"At the average rate of consumption prevailing during the 1950-1951 year, the two and two tenths million bales estimated to be on hand Aug. 1, 1952, would constitute only slightly more than two months' supply for domestic mills.

Brannan said his department is watching the farm labor picture.

Gathings had urged a better farm labor program for 1952, saying that without more labor "the farmers are just not going to plant the acreage that will be required in the preparedness effort."

"We understand," Brannan wrote "that farmers in your state used some Mexican labor. The Mexican workers entered the United States under an agreement with Mexico that expires early in February."

"It is our understanding that renewal of the agreement is largely contingent upon enactment of new legislation that would provide for

Beverage Control Board in Session

Little Rock, Jan. 24 (AP)—The Arkansas Alcoholic Beverage Control Board met today to hear a petition signed by Pine Bluff, Ark., residents asking the board to revoke a retail liquor permit issued to John R. Diamond Dec. 31.

William Arch Parker of Hot Springs was to appear before the board to show why his retail beer permit should not be revoked.

Parker has been charged with being intoxicated while operating the 403 club in Hot Springs.

Mother to See Quads for First Time

Murfreesboro, Jan. 24 (AP)—Mrs. Leonard Ponder may get to see her four new babies Saturday for the first time since they were born Jan. 14.

She was allowed to get up for a few minutes when her husband and Dr. M. J. Duncan arrived here from New York and Washington yesterday.

Mrs. Ponder said she hopes to be strong enough by Saturday to visit the Nashville hospital, where the quads, still unnamed, are in incubators.

A pint of ordinary water weighs about a pound.

New "Rocket" Powers Oldsmobile Super "88"

Oldsmobile's 1952 Super "88" four-door sedan is powered by a more efficient 160-h.p. "Rocket" engine that offers better performance, especially when coupled with the new Hydra-Matic Super Drive. Styling again is characterized by the original slatted brightwork sash down the rear door. A new center bumper guard has been added to the front grille. Luxurious interior upholstery features gray or green nylon sharkskin harmonizing with light gray or green nylon Bedford cord. GM hydraulic steering is available at extra cost, as is Hydra-Matic Super Drive.

Major style changes and important mechanical improvements characterize the Oldsmobile 1952 models being introduced today. In Oldsmobile dealerships throughout the United States, innovations in new models according to J. F. Volkmann, Oldsmobile general manager and president of General Motors, include the more efficient 160-h.p. "Rocket" engine with the high performance Quadri-Jet Carburetor and Super "88" styling, complete new styling and more luxurious interiors in the 88, new Super range for increased performance of Hydra-Matic Drive and GM power steering, both available at extra cost.

Oldsmobile presents three lines of cars in 1952. The classic series "88", powered by the improved 80 h.p. "Rocket" engine, is available in three body styles — four-door sedan, Holiday coupe and convertible coupe. The Super "88" has five body types—four-door sedan, two-door sedan, Holiday drives the Classic 98. The Super 88, like the 88, uses the Quadri-Jet carburetor that accounts for the improved efficiency and boosts the horsepower rating from 135 h.p. to 160 h.p. Compression ratio is 7.3 to 1. The Super 88 also has a new rear stabilizer that improves car handling and reduces side sway.

Due to the 25 additional horsepower developed, other changes have been made in the 1952 "Rocket" engine. Sturdier pistons have been installed. This in turn has necessitated the addition of heavier counter-weights on the five-bearing crankshaft to compensate for the power increase. Increase of the ratio of the valve travel to the rocker arm has raised the valve lift and thus contributed to the greater horsepower.

The Quadri-Jet carburetor is a further advance in high compression engine development achieved by Oldsmobile engineers. It consists essentially of a primary and a secondary carburetor, each of the dual downdraft type. There are four barrels in this compound carburetor set-up. The Quadri-Jet is more efficient at metering the fuel for starting or low-throttle operation due to better distribution of the fuel and air. On starting on low throttle operation, only the primary carburetor with its two barrels is used. The automatic choke also applies only to the primary carburetor. At half throttle opening or beyond, the secondary carburetor adds its two barrels to the system, giving the carburetor much greater "breathing capacity."

The GM hydraulic steering system offers smooth positive steering with little effort on the drivers part. Action of the steering gear on light loads is entirely mechanical. When three pounds or more of pressure is applied to the steering wheel, such as in parking, a booster pump is actuated and this lessens the effort necessary to turn the wheel. The hydraulic pump is driven by the car engine and builds up enough pressure to overcome the resistance to rotation of the steering apparatus. The pressure of the driver to put the hydraulic pump into action allows him the "feel" of steering and maintains the "feel" throughout the turning cycle. GM hydraulic steering does not steer beyond the path the driver has set.

The Deluxe "88" series Oldsmobile for 1952 has a larger and roomier Fisher body, with a longer wheelbase of 120 inches and overall length of 204 inches. This makes it comparable in size to the Super "88". A variation in exterior trim distinguishes it from the Super "88". The 145 h.p. "Rocket" engine with dual downdraft carburetor marks an increase of 10 h.p. over the 1951 model.

The 1952 Super "88" is powered by the same "Rocket" engine that

Montevideo, Uruguay was named after the cry of a lookout on the Magellan Expedition—"Monte vid" or—"I see a hill."

Business Can Pick Holes in Truman Budge

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Businessmen who say they aren't surprised by the President's super-colossal budget still find plenty in it to debate. The President's proposals for more foreign aid, tighter credit restrictions in home building and installment buying, higher taxes and plugging of loopholes in the tax returns of some industries, bring quick reaction today from those affected.

But businessmen also find two new trends in over-all fiscal and industrial policy of the administration made definite:

1. A slow down of the pace of re-armament. The President proposes to spend $5 billion dollars in the fiscal year starting next July—considerably more than in the present fiscal year. But most of that money next year will go for goods already ordered and now under production. New orders for arms and military supplies will be fewer this year than last.

This stretching out of the defense program will mean two things to businessmen. First, this year and next, as they deliver the goods for which they already hold orders, they will be assured of steady flow of government money into their tills. This spells prosperity for them and their employees. But, second, in 1945 through 1948 when the smaller orders the President plans this year will be coming off the production lines, the receipts of government money by industry will be considerably less than many companies had anticipated only a short time ago. The dates for the expected post-armament jolt to the economy may be set in this budget message.

2. The second trend made plain by the budget message is the abandonment of the pay as you go policy and a turn to mounting deficit financing.

This means more government money is going to be paid to industrialists and businessmen in the next two years for goods and services than the treasury is going to take from the taxpayers. This assures government financed prosperity in many industries. It means more money in the pockets of businessmen and their employees.

However, to those in the banking and financial worlds who fear another onslaught of inflation by the end of this year, this deficit financing means groundwork being laid for the further cheapening of the dollar and expansion of credit.

But the over-all size of the budget and the 14 billion dollar deficit the President forecasts also draws protests from businessmen.

"In view of the attitude so widely held that we are overdoing the matter of international aid, it is a shock to see that the President proposes to increase these expenditures by nearly four billion dollars a year," says William J. Grede, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"Instead of indicating some concern that the military build-up itself might be carried too far, too fast, the message states that the budget provides for building towards somewhat higher goals than we had planned a year ago, Grede adds—discussing the total armament.

Carlson Gets Okay From Coast Guard

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Capt. Kurt Carlson may return to the sea with the best wishes of head of a Coast Guard board of inquiry which investigated the sinking of the freighter Flying Enterprise.

Capt. Lewis Shackelford, presiding officer at the inquiry, told Carlson yesterday he realized what he had been through and hoped his ordeal will not be repeated. Shackelford added:

"Go back to the sea with my best wishes."

Shackelford closed the hearing after Carlson, of Woodbridge, N. J., had testified about the Flying Enterprise saga.

The skipper said a wild storm, not improper cargo loading, sent the freighter to the bottom. Carlson also answered some criticisms made of his seamanship at the hearing last week.

The findings of the inquiry board were not disclosed. They will be forwarded to Coast Guard headquarters for final consideration and determination whether there was any negligence among the Enterprise crew. The Coast Guard could suspend or cancel seaman licenses or certificates.

Before adjourning, the inquiry board refused to take testimony from several attorneys who represented owners of the freighter's lost cargo and a number of passengers and crew members.

Officer to Ask Reinstatement

Hot Springs, Jan. 23 (AP)—Lt. E. W. Rowe, discharged from Hot Springs, planned to ask Circuit Judge C. Floyd Huff today for reinstatement on the force.

Rowe was discharged from the force by city civil service commission Monday night on charges of conduct unbecoming to an officer. The commission also demoted Police Chief Dan Watkins to rank of lieutenant and he resigned.

Judge Huff ordered the commission to re-instate Watkins pending a final hearing on the matter Monday.

Actress Fannie Ward Is Ill

New York, Jan. 22 (AP)—Diamond studded Fannie Ward, who appeared so young both on-stage and off to passing generations, was in critical condition in a hospital today.

The seemingly ageless counterpart of Peter Pan—now in her 80s and perhaps older—suffered a stroke during the week-end in the Park Avenue apartment where she has lived alone.

Her condition is such that the amount of new orders to be placed this year. He deprecates the "waste, extravagance and non-essential spending" he sees in the President's proposals.

The President's indication he wants Congress once more to look into "tax loopholes" and what the President calls "favoritism in writing tax laws" also alarms those in the petroleum industry who see another drive to whittle down the 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance for the oil and gas industry—based on the idea that oil companies use up their assets as the pump them from the earth.

"The depletion allowance is fair and equitable and represents a necessary component of our tax structure," says R. G. Ellis, chairman of the board of Standard Oil Co. of California.

"A reduction in this allowance would reduce the incentive to the search for oil which is of paramount importance to the defense of our country."

As for the President's request for higher taxes in general—businessmen had a word for that, too. But they're pinning their fifth on Congress to kill that request and thereby make it unnecessary for that word to be spelled out.

Momentary 'Thrill' Makes Many American Teenager Victims of Habit Which They Can't Break

(Editors note: This is the second of four stories on "America's Slave World of Narcotics.")

By DON WHITEHEAD

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Uncounted thousands of teen-age boys and girls have walked into America's slave-world of narcotics looking for a momentary "thrill"—and found they are victims of a habit they cannot break.

Many enter this half-world with their eyes wide open, knowing full well the danger that is encased in a capsule of cocaine or heroine. They think they can get away with it without being "hooked."

But a youngster can become an addict in three days to six weeks after taking the first shot. Fever then one out of five, according to government hospital records, ever are cured of the habit once it takes hold.

The road to addiction is well charted in the records of the U. S. Bureau of Narcotics and in revelations by the Senate's Crime Investigation Committee.

Almost in every case the young addict starts with marijuana cigarettes to get a thrill—to be one of the gang. Marijuana itself isn't a narcotic. But soon the kick in a marijuana cigarette isn't enough.

The next step usually is "snorting" (sniffing) cocaine or heroin—and then to "mainlining" (taking hypodermic injections directly into the blood stream).

The teen-age pattern has been described to investigators by a young woman who was taken to a "reefer pad"—a marijuana party—by a girl friend in Baltimore, Md. There she was given her first "reefer" and later she told this story:

"We really did laugh and smoke and cry and dream. There was plenty of music. Reefers make you like and just love music. Really they make you keen for music. They really increase your hearing so fine that you can pick out every note and then the right theme sort of gets in your joints and bloodstream you cannot keep still; but, believe me, when it wears off you droop, you get scared. I even saw shadows and things looked double. It gets my legs. They get slow."

"Then you grab and you grab for another stick (cigarette). I will tell you what my first stick did to me: Water ran out of my eyes, I choked and coughed. I had a rush of funny feeling all over me."

"Just when I was high, my girl friend told me to come on up to the bathroom with her. I went. She got a mirror and emptied and spread one cap (capsule) of heroin on it. She took a razor blade and divided it into five even parts. This was a 5-grain cap of heroin. She gave me a straw and she had one. She snorted her three parts and I snorted the other two. This was my first heroin. It tasted something like quinine to me. It took a few minutes to act.

"I began vomiting, my stomach contracted and I had an awful pain."

"A week later I went back to my girl friend's house and I told her what had happened and she laughed. I told her I didn't like it. But I tell you, something within me made me go back."

"Her brother was there and he laughed, and then he said, 'You have not really had a kick. I will give you a real one much better than that.'

"He got out a hypo and a needle, and he told me to come in the kitchen. He fixed heroin in a cooker, filled the hypo and took my arm. This was my first shot."

"I vomited again but soon I felt a change. My face got slack. I looked in the mirror and I saw my mouth was drooping; I began scratching my face and rubbing my nose. This feeling passed right into a feeling of elation. It was swell. I got gay. Just everything was all right with me."

And so an addict was born into the world of physical and mental wrecks from which so few return.

Taft End Tour of Wisconsin

Monroe, Wis., Jan. 23 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) wound up his two-day presidential campaign tour of Wisconsin last night with a proposal that farmers themselves handle farm production controls when such controls are needed.

The government's job, he said, primarily should be to offer advice and assistance.

"I think there is undoubtedly a point at which the government must step in to protect the farmers against the kind of depression which let them go through the wringers so many times in the past," Taft said.

"At times a reasonable price support will require production controls, although certainly they should be avoided, except in serious emergencies."

"If we have any controls, however, they ought to be exercised as far as possible by the farmers of each community."

The Ohio Republican spoke at a Chamber of Commerce dinner attended by about 1,500 cheesemakers, farmers and business men.

Taft praised Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who is up for re-election, and told newsmen, "If Sen. McCarthy is the Republican nominee for the Senate I certainly will support him."

Taft was scheduled to fly to Washington today.

Oil Production Shows Increase

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 23 (AP)—The United States daily average crude oil and lease condensate production in the week ended Jan. 19, was 6,193,904 barrels, an increase of 3,945 barrels, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

The biggest gain was in Kansas, up 7,100 barrels to 317,300 barrels; the largest loss in Colorado, down 2,200 barrels to 78,000.

Increases were recorded in Oklahoma, up 4,700 barrels to 532,200; California, up 700 to 989,200; and Mississippi, up five to 101,700.

Other areas with declines were Alabama, down 100 barrels to 2,700; Arkansas, off 100 barrels to 82,840; the Eastern fields, down 500 to 58,500; Illinois, 900 to 107,200; Indiana, 1,000 to 30,200; Kentucky 300 to 34,000; Louisiana, 100 to 655,400; Michigan 300 to 37,200; Montana 250 to 24,000; Nebraska, 300 to 7,600; Utah, 100 to 4,100; and Wyoming, 500 to 184,000.

Production was unchanged in Florida, 1750 barrels; New Mexico, 153,825; and Texas, 2,749,025.

Churchill Leaves for England

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill waved goodbye to the United States early today.

The 77-year-old British statesman, after 18 days in the United States and Canada, sailed for home aboard the liner Queen Mary.

He puffed a cigar and waved breezily to several hundred persons who came to see him off. He was accompanied by financier Bernard Baruch, his actress daughter Sarah Churchill, and city representatives.

The prime minister spent a total of about seven days in Washington and had six policy discussions with President Truman.

The newly created kingdom of Libya is Africa's fourth and largest independent country with no tie to foreign crown or colonial empire.

Children's 'Piggy Banks' Suggested

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—A congressional committee suggests the sale of "piggy banks"—purchased with kids' pennies—to encourage juvenile thrift and to cope with a coin shortage.

The suggestion was passed on to the Treasury by a House Appropriations subcommittee after it heard of a growing coin shortage caused by increased use of metal in defense programs.

Author of the idea, Rep. Selma Sklar (D-N.J.) said the "piggy banks" would cost $8.75 in pennies, presumably taken from piggy banks, and would pay off $5 in 10 years. The interest rate would be the same as on series E bonds.

Central Seeks Feeder Air Line

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Keith Kahle, president of Central Airlines, said yesterday the bulk of his airline's traffic consists of passengers relayed to or taken from mainline carriers.

This, he said at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing, shows that his line is performing its function as a local, or feeder line as contemplated by the CAB.

Kahle testified at a hearing involving Central's application for a five-year renewal of its permit to operate feeder service in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas and also for permission to extend operations east and south across Arkansas.

Income Tax

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Jan. 23 (AP) — Some people, making out their tax return on 1951 income, are realizing how the tax has crept up and socked them.

past 18 months it has raised them twice.
The first cut was on 1946 and 1947 income. Then Congress cut still further on 1948 and 1949 income to the lowest postwar point.
But in the fall of 1950, after Korea, Congress upped the tax and then, in the fall of 1951, boosted it again.

has shot up above the tax you paid in 1951 on 1950 income. And in 1952, when you pay your tax in 1952 income, it will be even higher than the tax you're paying in 1952 on 1951 income.

tract the 11.8 per cent in 1950 from the 12.4 per cent in 1951. But — the increase in his tax was $17, which was an increase of 4 per cent over what he paid in 1950.

1946 income when he paid $356, which was 11.8 per cent of his income.
But — in 1953 he'll be paying $118 more in taxes on his 1952 income than he did in 1950 on 1949 income, which means an increase of 33 per cent in his tax.

Take a single man who has been making $3,000 steadily for years. He finds the tax on his 1951 income was 17 per cent higher than on 1950 income and 22 per cent more than on 1949 income. And the tax on his 1952 income will be 33 per cent greater than the tax on his 1949 income.

The tax varies by individuals and income. For example, Take a single man who has been making $15,000 steadily for years. The tax on his 1951 income was 12.5 per cent more than on 1950 income and 10.3 per cent more than on 1949 income. And the tax on his 1952 income will be 27.3 per cent above that on his 1949 income.

Here is how we got into this fix. After the war — taxes reached their peak in 1944 and 1945 — Congress cut taxes twice. But in the again.

"Vatican city as a political entity is a legal fiction to bolster up the pretensions of the Roman church to temporal power," the bishop said. "Mr. Truman is deluding himself if he thinks he is proposing diplomatic liaison between two political states. No matter how he may phrase it, it will mean an ambassador from our government to the so-called holy see, a religious organization whose genius for dominating the political life of nations for its purpose is written large on the pages of history. . . . An ambassador to the Roman Catholic church means inevitably a papal nuncio in Washington — a church official with the status of a political ambassador. . . . It would enable that church to exert special pressure and influence on our government — and there are people in many nations where the Roman Church is dominant who can tell you what that means."

Among other things, Bishop Mitchell suggested that the convention begin to consider "that in five years my course as your bishop will have been run," adding: "It might be wise in my last year to elect a coadjutor assistant bishop so that he may get adjusted to the harness before I retire."

He reported that communicant membership in the Diocese of Arkansas now is above 7,000, compared to 4,500 when he became bishop 14 years ago.
